LIBERTY BELL

Humphreys Cultural Center in Liberty

Originally cast by the White Chapel Bell Foundry in London (using the same mold as the Philadelphia original) the Liberty Bell served as a symbol of the Liberty Muscular Dystrophy Foundation. It was dedicated on the Courthouse Square in 1960 and rung sixteen times by legendary Hollywood actor John Wayne. In 2008 the outdoor bell tower sustained damage during Hurricane Ike, and was dismantled. The bell is on display at the Humphreys Cultural Center.

LIBERTY COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Downtown Liberty

One of Texas' "most well-kept historic courthouses" according to the Texas Historical Commission. Completed in 1931, it is the last of seven structures built on this site. The west side addition, facing City Hall, was completed in the late 1950s.

A state historical marker erected on the courthouse grounds explains the history of the seven structures on this site. Three red granite monuments, along with a bronze plaque dedicated to the 1956 Liberty Bicentennial, can also be seen. A WWII Howitzer artillery piece sits on the northwest corner of the square.
